

Mission Studies Network

Discuss Michael Northcott's
"A Moral Climate"

In this accessible book Northcott argues that global warming is a central moral issue for Christians and others seeking to live morally. He goes beyond the climate change slanging match and looks at earth-connection, living with enough as enough and the Christian call to be in proper relationship with God's creation. The book helps to answer the question: What has ecology to do with mission?

Michael S Northcott, A moral climate: The ethics of global warming (Maryknoll: Orbis, 2007)

Tues 26 October 2010

12.30 to 2 pm

Rear of Miss Libertine pub, 34 Franklin St,
Melbourne (you can buy a meal)

Offered by the Mission Studies Network.
Inquiries: Ross Langmead, rlangmead@whitley.unimelb.edu.au
Please share this invitation with others.